

Jackie Rubino

Methuen, Massachusetts

Jackie has spent 15 years as an English teacher at Methuen High School in Massachusetts, teaching grades 9, 10 and 12 in global contemporary issues and British literature and alternative English and alternative history. She has taught all levels of courses ranging from college prep to honors level and currently teaches 12th grade British Literature (CP and Honors) and global contemporary issues, which emphasizes the need to acknowledge and understand unfamiliar perspectives and draw inferences from literature. British literature includes a base of the classics with recently added contemporary, multicultural texts.
